COLUMN WRITING

Division 1: Harvey Winner: Danielle Merriman - New Palestine High School

Judge's Comments: Life and death stories can be fairly trite. But that's not the case here. The writer has given us interesting insights into the life of her cousin. Good use of description, interesting details, direct quotes and appropriate background. A few paragraphs could have been broken up a bit (2+ paragraphs) and the proofing could have been a bit stronger, but those might be editing concerns, not writing problems.

Division 2: Harvey Winner: Heather Powell - Plainfield High School

Judge's Comments: Great details. Nice pace to piece. Good description. Nice story-telling approach to the writing. A few anecdotes help hook the reader into the column. Just a strong, easy-to-read-and-enjoy piece of writing.

Second Place: Ashley Gross - Connersville High School

Division 3: Harvey Winner: Liz Stringer & Irene Sun - Ben Davis High School

NEWSPAPER PORTFOLIO

Division 1: Harvey Winner: Kimberly Burns - Scottsburg High School

Judge's Comments: You've nicely stopped the action in the two sports photos, and you've chosen a nice angle of view (looking down) in the other photo. Getting strong composition is a must, and you've done that. Overall the three photos seemed a bit gray (low/flat contrast), but they printed okay in the paper.

Division 2: Harvey Winner: Adam Alexander - Muncie Central High School

Judge's Comments: All three photos have a nice story-telling quality about them. All draw the reader into the action. Although all are medium-range shots (the weakest of the three -- using the framing technique (Stars), a repetition of elements/helmets (History) and leading lines (faces all in a row) Nice job!

Second Place: Anne Simmons - Columbus East High School

Division 3: Harvey Winner: Matt Walker - New Albany High School

Judge's Comments: Strong composition on all photos submitted. Nice use of appropriate angles. Good mix of action and non-action photos. You were able to capture a bunch of different moods, and that makes for interesting photo essays.

Second Place: Ben Pearson - Warren Central High School
